

We're First --- But It Was Noisy!

A LOUD 'FIRST' — These five Daly City youngsters found the city's celebration of California's new status as first in population a bit noisy last Friday. Holding their ears as the civil defense air horn atop the Fire Department sounds are, from left, Bruce Cardinal, 2 El Portal way; Richard Molkenbuer, 296 Wilshire avenue; Teddy Reiterman, 294 Wilshire; Bill Molkenbuer, 296 Wilshire and Joel Weinberg, 277 Wilshire.

Nobody Got Excited

A Calm California-First Day

By DON MILLER

California first? Perhaps so, the average North County resident seemed to muse last Friday but he didn't get very excited about it.

In fact, when fire and air raid sirens screeched a signal at 4 p.m. Friday for the start of a four-day California-First celebration, the North county's brisk pace didn't miss a step.

Heavy traffic continued to clog Mission street, Alemany boulevard, Junipero Serra boulevard and other Main North county thoroughfares.

Post - Christmas shoppers merely shrugged at the sound of the sirens and plunged into stores.

Some of the youngsters on vacation from school wondered what all the racket was about but most didn't slacken their holiday activities.

IF THE NORTH COUNTY failed to get into the spirit of things, the apathy, at least, wasn't statewide, according to all reports.

In Sacramento, state employees fired blank shots in the Capitol building and church bells rang.

Twenty Kit Carson Mountain Men drove in from the Mother Lode country on a fire truck and presented Gov. Edmund G. Brown with a leather scroll.

The Governor had started all the commotion in the first place by officially proclaiming the four-day celebration and giving all state employees the day off Monday.

His hearty call for all municipalities to follow the leader was met with somewhat less than enthusiastic reception.

Daly City government closed its doors for the day but neighboring San Francisco — led by Mayor George Christopher — would have none of that.

Too costly, said Christopher.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT, New York State took an even dimmer view of the proceedings.

The Empire State refused to concede that California had become top dog in the population derby and testily asserted it would be spring of next year before California did.

Editorial comment in the East flew thick and fast about the California celebration and the state's claims to top billing.

One Upstate New York newspaper, The Rochester Times-Union, called the celebration "statistically premature," but conceded the next official census would back up what Californians are claiming now.

Despite the disbelief in the East and the varying reaction in the West, Californians, nonetheless, seemed resigned to being Number One.

Whether this was good or bad was a subject of lively debate but the state generally backed up Gov. Brown when he urged before New Year's Eve:

"Let us drive carefully, reduce speed and celebrate a new California first — a New Year's holiday record as the first state in the Nation in highway safety."

Outlook Is 'Good'

For Business in Daly City in 1963

The business outlook for Daly City in the coming year is "pretty good," Finance Officer Joseph Arch believes.

If the trend of business in Daly City continues its present movement, revenues from sales tax will exceed estimated income to the city by 30 to 40 thousand dollars.

According to figures from the State Board of Equalization, on taxable purchases alone in the first half of the year, Daly City residents spent $24,577,000.

Figures for the latter part of the year are not yet available but are expected to be higher. Ten completely new businesses, most of them in the Skyline Plaza and St. Francis Square shopping centers, opened during 1962.

Meanwhile, 96 other firms applied for business licenses, either taking over existing businesses or moving into empty buildings. Quite a number of the new firms have moved into a building and remodeled it, said Arch. Several of them are in the Westlake Shopping center.

The planned addition of a Macy's store, plus augmented parking facilities in the center is expected to add considerable revenue to the area.

One of the biggest businesses in Daly City is the operation of the city government.

The fiscal year for the city runs from July 1 to June 30 of the next year. During the current fiscal year, the city will spend $3,189,396, Arch said.

This year's budget is up $367,000, yet no tax increase is pending, he stated. In other words, revenues from other sources, such as sales tax, will meet added expenditures.

Biggest expenditure in the city budget is for salaries of city employees. This amounts to $1,408,330 this year.

A capital outlay of $693,405 for this year includes purchase of a site for a new city hall, the Knowles street project, a new remote control system and reservoirs for the water system, completion of Westmore park, playground and a new city storage garage.

Other expenditures include outlays for materials and supplies, $524,071 and debt service, $71,955. An unbudgeted reserve of $151,200 is included.

Most of the money that is spent comes from property taxes that amount to $906,047. Daly City receives $610,207 in subventions from the state.

This is one reason the city has requested a population census. With more people, the city subvention money will increase.

Other sources of income include licenses, $109,600; motor vehicle fines, $68,400; sales taxes, $470,000; water revenues, $698,000 and miscellaneous items, $223,465.

The city applied $113,657 of reserves to make up the rest of the budget.

New Escort Service Is Proposed

Plans of a Gilroy rancher to open an escort service in San Mateo county has prompted some official concern.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson informed the county Board of Supervisors that the county has no ordinance to control such an enterprise. He recommended that one be adopted as soon as possible, and the supervisors agreed.

The ordinance will apparently have no control over the planned escort service, however, inasmuch as it is to be established in Belmont and not in the board's jurisdiction.

No Fears

The rancher, Hugo Campisi, declared, however, that Sorenson would have nothing to fear if the service were to be established in the county jurisdiction.

"Any escorts we register, Campisi said, 'are going to have to be clean, clean, clean.' And so are the people who want to use the service, according to Campisi.

"I'm going to pick and choose," he said. "We're not going to have any bums coming in off the street."

Sorenson said he and Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore will prepare a proposed regulatory ordinance that will cover the investigation, licensing and supervision of escort services.

Sorenson said his draft will include a provision that no escorts or customers under 21 will be allowed to go out on dates unless they are accompanied by their parents. Campisi's attorney, William Lanam, said such a regulation would not be needed in his client's case, however, because no minors will be involved.

Keep Books

Under the ordinance, according to Sorenson, such services will be required to maintain complete books and records on both escorts and customers. Escorts will be required to get work permits and their backgrounds will be carefully investigated. An appropriate fee will be charged to pay the costs to the county.

Lanam said there is no regulatory ordinance in Belmont but said his client has been cooperating with city officials.

Campisi said he will interview everyone, both escorts and clients, personally before approving them for the service. The interviews will be held in the office at 720 El Camino Real in Belmont. (Please See Page 2, Col. 6)

Beckley Charges Probation Aides Tried 'Spying'

By VIRGIL WILSON

Charges against five of his staff employees were made public last week by Loren A. Beckley, chief administrative officer of the county Probation department.

Beckley accused the two leaders of the recent revolt against his administration with "insubordination and conduct unbecoming public employees."

Three other probation officers were accused of "unethical behavior" for attempting to "spy" on the administration with a hidden miniature wire recorder.

Defense

The Juvenile Justice commission, before whom the charges were made, agreed to schedule public hearings at which the employees may defend themselves. No dates for the hearings were set, however. It was indicated that the commission may wait until the Superior Court judges have completed their investigation of the department and made their recommendations.

The three staffers accused of conspiring in the wire recorder case were identified by Beckley as Patricia Southward and Robert M. Schuman, assistant probation officers, and Victor S. Fought, a supervising probation officer.

Beckley recommended an official reprimand for them, to go into their records.

He did not specify, however, what punishment he will recommend for Lino Beldi and Thomas Eblen, the probation officers who organized and led the insurrection against Beckley and his top aides. Beckley cited them for "failure to observe the established chain of command" and for assuming "leadership of a program to create a misleading impression of the administration to probation staff... and to the community."

Unethical

The other three staff members were accused of lack of judgment, unethical behavior and wasting county time and equipment in their project to obtain a wire recorder. Beckley said the employees admitted their roles in the affair and said his evidence against them was obtained in signed statements obtained from them.

The chief probation officer said Miss Southward first obtained a recorder from a local police department, which was not identified. But the device didn't work. She then went to another police department but her request to borrow a recorder was refused. It was then decided to rent one but, after discussing it with Beldi, it was agreed that it would not be used. The recorder was returned to the hi-fi store from where it was rented.

Procedures

The first hour of the meeting last week was spent working out the procedures for the session. Beckley started by filing his charges against Miss Southward, Fought and Schuman. District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson advised the commission that the employees were entitled to a closed hearing if they desired. But James Dennis, their attorney, requested that all proceedings be open to the public.

Dennis demanded, however, that

2 Arrested After Party

Two teen-agers and the mother of another were arrested by Daly City police Saturday night in the aftermath of what police described as a drinking party.

Charged with intoxication were Michael V. Bern, 18, of 406 San Bruno avenue, and James C. Throne, 19, of 117 Santa Barbara avenue, Daly City.

Mrs. Sammy Lee Fries, 37, of 173 Flournoy street, Daly City, the mother, was charged with disturbing the peace and interfering with the duties of a police officer. Patrolmen said she became argumentative during their investigation of the party. She told police she had arrived at the party to take her daughter home.

Investigators said the party was held in a home at 556 San Diego avenue. They said the basement was strewn with empty beer cans.

NATION'S FIRST

Teenage Chamber To be Televised

The nation's first teenage Junior Chamber of Commerce, formed in Daly City late in November, will bow on television this month.

The second meeting of the club at 7:30 tomorrow evening in the War Memorial building will be taped by KPIX for later showing.

The club is largely the brainchild of Joseph Bavaresco, president of the Daly City-Colma Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Bavaresco talked over the possibility of organizing a teenage branch at a seminar of Jaycee officials in Palm Springs four months ago.

A national official of the Jaycees encouraged Bavaresco to proceed with the idea. He interested a number of youths in the project and the group held its first meeting November 23.

Beckley Says Spying Tried

the charges be put in writing and that his clients be given 14 days to decide whether they desired a formal hearing. Beckley wanted to proceed, however, with the specifications of his charges. The vote on whether to go ahead or not was a tie, 3 to 3.

After a 10-minute recess, the vote was taken again and this time the motion to proceed passed standing Dennis' requests would be granted if Beckley intended to ask the commission to support his actions.

Disagree

The three commissions who had balked—Dan Love Jr., Mrs. Sabra Carrara and H. R. Sclaroni—were the same three who had disagreed with the majority in the commission's report on its investigation of the department's squabble. Love questioned Beckley last night about his mailing copies of the majority report to all employees. Love wanted to know why he had not done the same with the minority report. Beckley replied that it was because he had never received a copy of the minority report. Love said he would take care of that.

One of the major points upon which the two reports differ is the question of punishment for Beldi and Eblen. The majority recommended disciplinary action. In response to other recommendations in the majority report, Beckley pointed out that work is continuing on a manual of personnel procedures and noted that the project was started prior to the upheaval. He urged that a statement of policy be established spelling out the roles and responsibilities of the court, the commission and the chief probation officer. Beckley said he felt that supervisory controls in the juvenile division are now adequate. In response to a question after the meeting, he said he was also satisfied with controls in the adult division.

Banks to Offer Licenses

Like millions of other Californians, Peninsula motorists this year will be getting new auto license plates for the first time in years.

To help them, Tom Bright, state director of motor vehicles has arranged to have DMV employees on duty at some banks to distribute licenses. Two of the bank licensing stations are in this area, one in San Mateo, one in San Bruno.

Since motorists will get entire license plates, instead of the little tabs which have been issued, only passenger car licenses will be issued at bank stations.

To renew registration at a bank station, motorists must present vehicle beside a passenger car, will find it necessary to renew at one of the 142 permanent field offices of the department of motor vehicles.

In the San Mateo county area, the following banks will offer passenger car renewal service between January 2 and the renewal deadline, February 4.

Bright emphasized that motorists who do not receive 1963 renewal statements, who wish to make ownership transfers, or who wish to license trucks, trailers or vehicles.

State Auto Unit Offers Trailer Tips

Special skills are required to drive a car with a trailer and new trailer owners should get plenty of practice before venturing forth on the highway, says the California State Automobile association.

Being a good automobile driver is important in operating a car with a trailer, says the CSAA, but there is more to it than that.

Operating two linked units is different in several important ways. Hence, drivers must adapt some driving skills and acquire some new ones.

Motorists should keep in mind that another vehicle is attached to the car.

The CSAA listed these following trailer driving tips:

1. Getting under motion: Start slowly, being sure to carefully check traffic and to signal before moving. Then accelerate slowly and evenly. Check mirrors frequently with a series of brief glances to observe following traffic and also the action of your trailer.

2. Turning corners and rounding curves: You now have a long hinged dual unit to deal with when you want to get around a corner.

The trailer wheels will NOT follow the exact path of your car's rear wheels. Instead, trailer wheels will be considerably closer to the inside of the curve.

In taking right turns, position your rig several feet farther from the curb than you would with only your car. Turning left is easier, but proceed far enough into the intersection so that when you turn you will be able to swing wide enough to allow for trailer "off-track."

On rounding curves, keep well toward the center of your lane, and away from the pavement edge, to avoid dropping trailer wheels from the pavement to the shoulder.

3. Overtaking and passing: In this maneuver, you must be constantly aware that the towed vehicle will not only reduce your acceleration capability, but, because of the added length of car plus trailer, much more distance must be allowed to pass and to return to your proper lane. Avoid sudden swerves.

4. Being overtaken and passed: At times, your speed will be slower than that of others on the highway. Give special attention, therefore, to drivers desiring to pass you.

When a large bus or truck overtakes you, the air it is pushing aside will tend to push the rear of your trailer quickly to the right with an effect that you, as the driver, will feel.

But quickly thereafter similar air pressure will affect the front of your trailer. Knowing what will happen helps, and by a slight bit of steering, the situation can be safely met.

Do not apply brakes or you may make things worse. Accelerating slightly may help.

5. Slowing and stopping: Be sure trailer brakes are adjusted to the load. Maintain a considerably greater following distance than with your car alone, especially if trailer braking is absent or weather than car braking. Drive your rig at a speed so as to minimize the need for emergency slow-downs and stops. Generally avoid high-speed lanes. Make special allowances for unfavorable conditions.

6. Backing your trailer: Backing a trailer is nothing like backing a car. When you back a trailer, you must reverse your customary thinking. The trailer goes to the right when you turn your steering wheel to the left.

Campisi said his Peninsula Escort Service will register men and women of all age groups.

He said he does not know what the fee for service will be.

"It should be nominal, though," he added. "In talking with some prospective girl escorts, it seems they would be willing to work for a little bit of money because it gives them a chance to get out and have a social life, too."

Escort services are commonplace in large metropolitan areas but this is the first proposed for San Mateo county.

Santa Got Help

93 Families Aided in Operation

Santa had a good measure of help this Christmas in covering his Daly City run.

Ninety-three families with 392 children and six senior citizens were helped by the generosity of Daly City residents and the efforts of firemen, children and other volunteer workers.

"Operation Santa Claus" was termed successful by co-chairmen Peter Markovich and Daly City Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy. Twenty more families were helped this year, they said.

About 5200 cans of staple items were collected by local civic groups, schools, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Daly City Recreation department.

At the Daniel Webster playground alone, 1135 cans were collected. As a reward, the playground received new equipment such as basketballs, volleyballs and baseballs.

"The fire department did a tremendous job," Markovich said. "They worked during all their spare time on toys and bikes for the children."

Each youngster received at least one major toy. The older children were given $5 gift certificates that were donated by a discount house in Colma.

Enough food was given to the families to last over the New Year holiday, said Markovich. Each family received a turkey in addition to the staples.

Many of the families were large. One family had ten children, one had nine, four had eight and six had seven.

"Many of them would have had no Christmas at all if it weren't for the goodness of the community," Markovich said.

Several groups donated money that was used to buy the turkeys and some of the toys. The Hi-Fi Teen club held a dance December 14 and proceeds of $45 were donated to the program.

The volunteers worked out of the central fire station on Lake Merced boulevard and Firehouse 5 on Lincoln avenue. The Sunday before Christmas, 12 trucks and station wagons were used to deliver toys and two more were added that night to deliver food.

Groups participating in "Operation Santa Claus" included: Daly City-Colma Lions club, U. S. Marines' Toys for Tots, Rotary club, St. Vincent de Paul society, Daly City Fire department, Daly City Recreation department and Neighbors of St. Catherine drive.

Lake Merced Optimist club, Westlake Catholic Men's association, St. Martin Episcopal church, Broadmoor Presbyterian church, Westlake Catholic Women's association, Temple Judea, South San Francisco Lodge of Elks, American Legion auxiliary 824, Catholic Daughters of America and Nu Sigma Chapter Beta Sigma Phi.

Pacifica Councilmen Spend Post Yule in Court Action

Pacifica city councilmen who cancelled last week's regular Wednesday night meeting were not allowed to enjoy their time off from city responsibilities.

The council members spent the day after Christmas in Redwood City Superior Court in a reshuffle of the Sanchez Adobe gas station hassle.

The council has blocked action by Victor Magrin and the Union Oil company to build a service station on two corner lots, owned by Magrin at Adobe drive and Linda Mar boulevard near the historic Adobe.

The property had been zoned for commercial use by the council to permit a medical-dental center to be built there. Before Judge James O'Keefe, Magrin and attorney Vernon Vale protested action of the council in re-zoning the lots to residential garden apartment use.

Appearing for the city were Councilmen Harold Fegye, Harland Minshaw, Fred Ballew and Mayor George Mason, city manager Karl Baldwin and city attorney Conrad Reich. Councilwoman Jean Fassler was excused.

By Le Pacini

A GREAT baseball figure recently died. He wasn't a big, handsome athlete, or even a cunning promoter. He wasn't a dapper front office man, a dignified owner, or an unimpeachable official. He was a skinny little man with a pot belly to match his pop eyes, and he looked more like an emaciated owl or Ebenezer Scrooge than a great man. He was, in his time—and will be now that it's after his time—called a grouch, self-centered, foul-mouthed, ill-tempered, and other colorful descriptions which would suffer from redundancy in the retelling.

He was also called, by those who worked closely with him and by his family, sentimental, sensitive, warm-hearted, generous, and all of the other terms used to describe Santa Claus, or lesser Saints.

HE WAS John George Taylor Spink—more commonly known as J. G. Taylor Spink—and he was a genius at sports journalism and a giant contributor of good to the game of baseball, and on those points, there can be no arguments.

J. G. was publisher of The Sporting News, a trade paper which is to baseball what Variety is to show business. As a matter of fact, not even Variety has ever been seriously called the Bible of show business. But The Sporting News is casually called the Bible of baseball, and there isn't a person in the business who has ever snickered at the moniker.

And it was Taylor Spink who, over a period of almost half a century, established the baseball trade paper on its ethereal level.

His father, Charley Spink, and his uncle, Al Spink, started the publication in 1886, and after his father's death in 1914, Taylor took over completely, after having served the paper throughout his boyhood in various capacities ranging from office boy to publisher.

Although The Sporting News was already established, it was J. G. who made it great.

He took direct responsibility for inaccuracies and/or inequities. He personally checked out all information to the last detail, made certain that Joe Smith from the Mid-Atlantic league was shown as much concern as Babe Ruth.

HE BECAME the conscience of baseball. It was he who pushed Ban Johnson the hardest for thorough investigation of the baseball gambling scandals. He even personally investigated leads which later helped to uncover the many facets of the scandals, and which eventually, as history now reveals, saved the game of baseball itself.

It was Spink who encouraged Ring Lardner, when that journalistic great was briefly editor of The Sporting News, to start a series of humorous articles which later grew into the "You Know Me Al" series, which established Lardner as one of the short story writing greats in America.

Spink was also largely responsible, because of a continual crusade, to rid baseball of the crippling Federal league. It was he who was instrumental in bringing about a peaceful agreement between the warring factions.

He campaigned vigorously for night baseball and for more play-by-play radio reporting of games, and of course baseball prospered all the more because of these innovations.

When World War II broke out, Spink thought that servicemen should have easier access to The Sporting News, and so he published an overseas edition.

HIS SCOOPS were monumental, among them the shifts of the St. Louis Browns, Milwaukee Braves and Philadelphia Athletics.

And the good will which Spink created for baseball, through no prodding of commissioners or owners, but only because he loved the game, was immeasurable.

We never personally came into contact with Spink, but we know he couldn't have gotten rich on the game, because his subscription prices are certainly not in keeping with the relative low percentage of ads he runs.

As a collector of The Sporting News, we occasionally misplaced a copy and wrote to Spink requesting replacements—some of them hard to come by—offering to pay any amount for the duplicated copy. They were always in the mailbox a week or two later, with the notation, "no charge."

Once, when writing a college paper on the effect of sports on the American economy, we wrote to The Sporting News requesting a few facts and figures; to support certain statements.

We not only received a flood of material adequate enough to fill a book, but a gratis copy, personally autographed, of Spink's book, "Judge Landis and Twenty-Five Years of Baseball."

THE BOOK had nothing to do with our survey. Spink knew we had been a subscriber for years. There was nothing personally to gain out of the gesture, but Spink evidently spotted a chance to further cement good baseball relations with one lone college kid. And he did.

Recently the Baseball Writer's Association of America unanimously approved a resolution to establish an award honoring Spink at the Hall of Fame. It will be known as the J. G. Taylor Spink Award for meritorious service to baseball, and Spink's name will be at the top of his own honor roll.

This is nice, but we don't think it's enough. We think that Spink should be placed on the honor roll of the Hall of Fame members, right along with the great players and officials of all time.

Fair Paces Champions

HOLIDAY ACTION — Pace is rapid in these scenes of action in the first annual Daly City Yuletide Basketball Tournament, sponsored by the city's Recreation department. The Lucky Internationals beat the Indians in the final game to win the tournament. (Post-Times photos)

Paced by the tournament's most valuable player, Tim Fair, the Lucky Internationals defeated the Indians, 50-36, to walk off with first place honors in the First Annual Daly City Yuletide Basketball Classic.

Joining teammates John Putnam and Tom Parker on the all tournament team, Fair led his team to victory by all-around play and with 14 clutch points in the final game.

Prior to their final night victory, the Lucky Internationals had defeated consolation round champion Hamburgers, 29-20, the O.L.P.H. Gales, 43-30 and semi-finalists Fenogies 55-42.

The Indians, led by all-tournament team members Dan Cafferetta, Dennis Jew and Ken Anderson, powered their way to the finals by trouncing the Crusaders 67-35, and the Kampus Kings, 41-28, before succumbing to the champions.

Consolation round winners of the five-night tournament, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation department, were the Hamburgers who defeated the Rams 31-24 to walk away with the trophy.

After their first round defeat at the hands of the eventual champs, the Hamburgers defeated the Flintstones, 38-30, and the Gales, 32-37, to earn their shot at the consolation round.

Craig Helgoth of the semi-finalist Fenogies was selected the tournament's most sportsmanlike player.

In addition to this honor, Helgoth also was the tournament's leading scorer and rebounder. Other members of the all-tournament team in addition to Fair, Putnam, Parker, Helgoth, Cafferetta, Anderson and Jew were:

Bob Bias and Paul Howe of the Rams, Pete Pulos and Al Lujan of the O.L.P.H. Gales and Bob Ryan of the Kampus Kings.

Chuck Vincent, director of recreation, presented the trophies and certificates to the winning teams and players at the conclusion of the championship game.

Other members of the championship squad included Steve Zarate, Joquin Andrade, Jim and Dan McGowan, Mike Bowers and Bob Hansen.

Odds vs. Ace — 84,575 to One!

What are the odds against scoring a hole-in-one?

Well, assuming that the nation's 6,000,000 golfers play ten rounds a season with an average score of 95, the power generated by their 5,700,000,000 swings is surely enough to drive a rocket halfway to the moon. But how many of these swings take the ball from tee to cup?

The official figure for 1961 was 12,888 holes-in-one, which makes the odds against scoring an ace roughly 84,575 to one. (Based on 18 tee shots per round and some 1900 arithmetic).

A Quincy, Ill., housewife and 20-handicapper defied the odds last year to score her first hole-in-one and win a golfing vacation for two in Scotland (including play at the famous Royal and Ancient club at St. Andrews) via the Old Snuggler Hole-in-One sweepstakes.

Now in its second year, the sweepstakes offers a pair of airline tickets to Scotland and $1000 to the lucky "ace" whose name is drawn. The professional who sends in the winner's name also receives $1000.

SEA BOWL
By MARIE SEMLER

Tom Dillon has made a return to form as he led the A-Nursery Men's league with a 200 game and 535 series. Other high shooters in this Wednesday morning league were Bob Mattinelli 213 and Vic Dermody with 202.

The bowler of the week had to be John Yates in the Friday Mixed Fours as he posted a big 253 game and 643 series while on the same night Jim Russell led the Telco league with a 235 game and 624 series.

Emily Drago became a repeat winner in the Ladies Friday afternoon No-Tap as she rolled a 695 to take first prize of $7, while Mildred Garrett took the $4 second prize with a 681 total. High game honors went to a visitor from Oakland, Rose Cleary, with a 214 game.

New Year's Eve will be "drop in" time at Westlake Bowl as Angie Ferrigno's combo will be on hand to provide danceable music from 9 to 1 and Bill Davis will serve a midnight buffet for Westlake Bowlers who drop in for a visit.

In the Southwest Handicap, Ora Sailors led the way with a 186 game and 527 series.

Kay French and Joe Brown were the top shooters in the Twilight Mixed Fives as Kay shot 180 and 499 and Joe posted a 205 game and 570 series.

Over 100 entries were registered the first week in our Junior Christmas Tournament as Phil Hargrove strives to keep the standings board current. With each squad that shoots, new leaders are registered.

The Broadmoor Mixed Fives produced its share of high games and series last week as Sharon Sylvester led the ladies with 190 and 461 while Bob Johnson provided the top scores with a 231 game and 615 series.

Irwin Penn's average keeps going up and up—this time due to his 616 series in the Westlake Knolls league with a high game of 226.

Canco bowler of the week was Dick O'Donnell as he posted a 201 game and 571 series to lead his fellow bowlers in the Canco league.

Kary Ryden was far from blue in the Blue Monday Scratch league as he led the league with his 216 game and 577 series.

Although dropping two of three games to the Castle Kingpins, our Junior 900 team continues to hold second place as the end of the first half of the league approaches.

One pin kept Jack McManoe from joining the 600 club last week as he led the Dusters league with a 599 series on a high game of 237.

News Call-Bulletin cartoonist Lenny DeCarlos sketched himself a fine 206 game and 602 series to take top honors in the 850 Majors.

Shirley Vellore led the ladies and Bob Brown was the leading man in last week's Sunday Evening No-Tap Sweeper. Shirley took home $9 for her efforts while Bob won $10 for taking top honors in the men's division. Second place prizes went to Sharon Sylvester and Joe Callas.

SEA BOWL

Things have been rather quiet during the "Bah, Humbug!" season—what with many leagues taking a breather; however, here goes.

The Pacific Federated Women's league had a jolly Xmas party including gifts, goodies, and a wassail bowl. Their "spirits" were indeed high as Loretta McCurdy soared to a 178 (winning her an extra prize) and Marlys Mathews garnered high series of 453. These gay gals need three bowlers on Tuesday afternoons at 12:45 p.m. Contact Marge Martinez—EL 9 2358.

Those sailors are back again. Pacific Boating Club had Jack Hughes 225-569 and Dessi Hart 209-516 at the wheel. The Prop Riders propelled for high team game and series. Monday's Yawners evidently stopped at "JAVA JUNCTION" as they appeared wide awake in these: Lois Mobley converted the 5-7 split to wind up a 180 game and 470 series. Claire Bryan "turkey"—in the 10th frame won for her team.

Sunday Sleeper stars were Ron Silverman 211-597 and Irene Fuller 165-445. Gus Baldocchi singled a nice 196. The Adult-Junior stars were paced by Mike Cristofani, 165 avg. ### Ski-Rax

By STAN WISEMAN

RESOLUTION TIME — "A" is for After-Ski drinks, which each year become a little more indigestible. B is for Bum, ski variety, like beach bum and water ski bum and just plain bum. C is for Cossack, which is what some of the ski clubs have too many of.

D is for Damaged, which is what happens if a Cossack runs me down on the ski slope. E is for Easy, which skiing is not, unless you are young and agile, which I am not... anymore.

F is for fun, which skiing is whether you do it on the slopes or in the bar, or from your motel room. G is for Gerda, with a good old horse name like that she must have something to do with skiing. End of alphabet.

HEAVENLY — The Tramway at HV has opened but lift No. 3 is open ONLY to intermediate and advanced skiers, and it's icy skiing.

Wayne Poulsen's Papoose ski area in Squaw Valley is working hard to overcome the handicap of recent fair weather. They have been doubling up on the snow-making equipment, extending the skiable area and providing fresh, custom-made powder snow daily. Non-skiers can watch this from the "Bear Pen" lodge across the street.

CSM Cagers Bid For Meet Crown

Defending champion College of San Mateo enters the 25th annual Modesto Junior College Basketball tournament tomorrow.

The Bulldogs have been a participant in this tournament every year since it started in 1938. No competition was scheduled in 1939.

The tournament is an invitational event with six valley conference colleges acting as the host teams for entrants from throughout the state.

Last year, CSM defeated Fresno, 62-48, for the title. The Bulldogs won another title in 1948, downing Visalia, 53-45. In 1953, they gained the finals but lost out to Los Angeles City college.

THE WINNER of every tournament for the past eight years is entered in this year's competition, which runs through Saturday night. Sixteen schools will compete.

Modesto is the only school to win two titles in succession, taking three straight during the 1943-45 war years.

San Mateo will meet Reedley of the Central conference at 6 p.m. tomorrow. The second round will be played Friday and the third and fourth rounds Saturday.

THE TOURNAMENT has become a forum for upsets during the years.

Last year, for example, City college of San Francisco was eliminated in the first two games and went home early. However, San Francisco lost only one of its next 17 games and went on to win the state junior college championship.

This year, four 1961-62 champions of California's eight junior college conferences are entered: CCSF, Hancock, San Jose and American River.

Individual and team trophies will be awarded to the tournament champion and runner-up. Awards also will be presented to teams finishing third, fourth and consolation.

OLM Gaels Favored in Cage League

Teams in the Daly City Recreation Basketball league got a chance to see each other in action late last month during a league tournament.

The tournament, in which 26 teams and approximately 250 boys took part, was held in Westmoor High school and the War Memorial Building.

In the fifth grade bracket, the OLM Gaels established themselves early as the team to beat.

The club went undefeated in four games and permitted only the PAL Eagles to score against them. The Eagles tied for second place with the PAL Jaguars.

The sixth grade bracket gave a preview of a tight race when league play begins next week. The OLM Hawks and the PAL Vikings rolled over their competition by large scores.

When the two teams met, however, the Hawks were victorious by a low 2-1 score. Darkhorse in the league is expected to be the PAL Warriors who came close to the Hawks and the Vikings in two games against them.

The eighth grade team followed its younger counterparts in remaining undefeated, 6-0, in its bracket. The PAL Saints ran a close second with a 5-2 record. The PAL Bears took the seventh grade title with a 5-1 record. The Bears' only defeat came at the hands of the New Pisa team in a 5-4 game.

The teams begin league action Saturday in practice games.

AFTER HOLIDAYS

Bulldogs, Oakland to Vie on Mat

Golden Gate conference wrestling leader College of San Mateo will be out of competition until next Wednesday when the Bulldogs resume conference play against Oakland City college at Coyote Point in a 4 p.m. match.

CSM and Diablo Valley, both 3-0, pace the league after the first three matches of a double round robin schedule. Oakland is in third place with two wins and a loss. San Mateo and Diablo end first round play at Diablo on January 18.

IN PRE-HOLIDAY action, Diablo tied CSM for the conference leadership with a 21-17 make-up victory over Foothill. Meanwhile the Bulldogs lost their first match of the year, in practice, to veteran Modesto, 13-18.

Valley power Modesto is 4-0 for the year with other victories over Foothill, Sequoias, and Sierra.

San Mateo was hampered in the Modesto match by the lack of a 191 division bout since 191 Matean Bill Fife is one of the Bulldogs' best wrestlers.

The 191 is a regular division in conference competition but optional in practice matches and Modesto declined to enter a man in this event.

CSM trailed, 11-16, after the 177 match and with no 191 division, undefeated Walt Wenger was forced to go for broke in the heavy (unlimited) class. A five point pin would have given CSM a 16-16 tie and a decision (three points) would have been worthless to the Bulldogs.

However, had there been a 191 match, CSM decisions in both of these heavy weights would have given San Mateo a one point victory.

AS IT WAS, Wenger dominated his match (over five minutes in "top" time advantage during the nine minutes of wrestling) but due to a quick four point take down and predicament by Pirate Dale Dessehburt at the outset, the bout ended in a 5-5 tie.

It was the first time Wenger had been scored upon in JC competition.

In other divisions, Matean Mike Ruiz decisioned Richard Tyler, 4-0, and Jerry Schiffman decisioned Modesto's Mike Teem, 6-5. In between, however, Bulldogs Ken Green and Dennis Reichardt were pinned as Modesto came from behind to take an eight point lead.

Norman and Hamel Lead Grid Totals

All-American quarterback Rick Norman and halfback Clarence Hamel have dominated football career statistics at College of San Mateo the past two years. Each led two of the five offensive categories.

Hamel, an honorable mention All-American last season, was slowed by injuries in mid-year last season but still posted a two year rushing mark of 1127 yards on 203 carries for a 5.6 average.

He scored 13 touchdowns and five two point conversions for 88 points. Claude McMillen was runner-up to Hamel in rushing with 721 yards on 143 carries, a 5.0 average while Norman was eight points back in the scoring column with 80 points on 12 touchdowns and four PAT's.

Sugar 'n' Spice

By Nell Norton

WHAT BETTER WAY to start a new year than with a new cook book?

Having collected cook books and recipes for years, I'm always anxious to add another to the file. This book is called "A Cook's Delight," and was compiled by the Holy Angels Womens Guild and sold by their group. Today I'll write the column the easy way and use this book to give you some of their interesting recipes.

Recently some of the markets have had leg of lamb on special and this recipe for lamb sauce caught my eye, as a nice finishing touch for it.

KENTUCKY LAMB SAUCE

- 1/2 cup drippings from the lamb roast
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup chili sauce
- 1/2 cup tart jelly (currant is best)

Salt if needed

Mix in a small saucepan and stir until well blended. Add salt. Allow to boil up once. Serve hot with roast. (Good with ham and beef drippings also).

THIS IS a combination of vegetables I've never tried, but it sounds good so let's try it, shall we?

EGGPLANT AND CORN CASSEROLE

- 1 small eggplant
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 small can corn
- Onion juice
- 1/2 teaspoon wet mustard
- 1 egg, beaten
- Breadcrumbs

Boil small eggplant until done. Peel after it is boiled. Mash with masher, add onion juice, salt and pepper to taste, wet mustard, butter, egg and corn. Put in casserole. Sprinkle with toasted or plain bread crumbs. To make it a little richer dot the top with small bits of butter. Bake in moderate oven, 20 to 30 minutes.

THE LAST RECIPE I'll use is familiar to me because I once read it in a collection of recipes of wives of famous men. This is called Ozark Pudding and I can't recall whether Mrs. Bess Truman used this title for it. But, essentially it is the same one she listed as one of Harry's favorites. Which just goes to prove that good recipes, like good news, travel fast and far.

OZARK PUDDING

- 2 eggs
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chopped raw apples
- 2 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 2 teaspoons vanilla

Beat the eggs and sugar for considerable time, until it is very smooth. Mix flour, baking powder and salt and then stir into egg-sugar mixture. Add apples, nuts and vanilla. Bake in buttered casserole in 350 degree oven for 35 minutes. Serve with whipped cream. (This sometimes, falls, but does not hurt the pudding.)

MY THANKS to the ladies of the guild for their most delicious recipes. If the recipes they've contributed are typical of their cooking habits, they must have the best-fed families around.

Christmas Cards Can Save Lives

"Don't toss those Christmas cards in the fireplace with the tree," pleads Mrs. Frank Runyan of Hillsborough. "Christmas cards may help save the lives of children afflicted with Cystic Fibrosis."

Peninsulans who want to put their seasonal greeting cards to good and lasting use have been asked to save them for the Peninsula chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research foundation.

The gaily colored messages of good cheer are the basis for the expanding charity enterprise originated in 1956 by Myrtle Runyan. Since that time, thousands of cards have been reworked and fashioned into practical and unusual gift tags.

Heading the design and production department of the project is Mrs. Runyan's mother, Mrs. Bessie Tripp of San Mateo. Cards may be left at the Runyan home, 1105 Marlborough road, Hillsborough. Francis Meyer, Hillsborough fire chief, has also volunteered the three Hillsborough Fire stations as collection depots again this year during the month of January. The Burlingame Recreation department headquarters, 850 Burlingame avenue, will also receive cards for the organization.

The sale of these Christmas gift tags, as well as all-occasion gift tags made from greeting cards of all kinds, has contributed substantially to funds needed for research into the cause, control, and cure of Cystic Fibrosis.

An inborn chemical disorder, Cystic Fibrosis is believed to be the most serious lung problem of American children. According to Mrs. Runyan, present statistics indicate that an American child is born with the disorder every two hours. Without early diagnosis and intensive care, half of the children will not survive to school age. CF is transmitted to one out of four babies of unaffected parents when both carry the recessive genes for the trait. Their future depends on life-long medical treatment, costly drugs and special breathing equipment.

The disease affects the glands of external secretion and causes chemical changes in these secretions that lead to serious complications in many organs. The most seriously involved are the lungs, the digestive system and the sweat glands.

Cystic Fibrosis is not a new disease. It was confused for many years with other diseases, because of similarities in the general symptoms, until it was identified 22 years ago as a distinct and separate disease. Since that time, and especially during the past ten years, important improvements have been made in methods for its diagnosis and treatment.

Parents of these children are now waging a valiant battle to help find the causes of the disease, and there are chapters of their organization all over the country. Through the national organization, which has headquarters in New York, 26 Cystic Fibrosis Care, Research and Teaching centers have been set up throughout the country. One of these is established at Children's hospital in Oakland.

In July of 1962, Dr. Norman Kretschmer of the Stanford School of Medicine, medical and scientific advisor to the national organization, was instrumental in creating the Stanford Pediatric Chest Clinic at Stanford Palo Alto hospital, with primary interest in CF patients. The clinic is being directed by Dr. Birt Harvey.

Part of the funds raised by the local chapter are contributed to the support of the Stanford Pediatric Chest clinic. A local drug bank is also maintained by chapter members to help lessen the cost to parents of expensive antibiotics and other drugs necessary in the daily home care of these children.

A 13-minute sound film titled "Mask of the Pied Piper" is available for group showing, and arrangements for a speaker on the subject of Cystic Fibrosis can be made through Mrs. Runyan. Also available is a new technical film for the medical and nursing professions, Mrs. Maxine Eggerth, 1147 Mercy street, Mountain View, is president of the Peninsula chapter, and regular monthly business meetings of the group are held the third Tuesday of each month in the Friendship room of the Pioneer Investors Saving and Loan association in Sunnyvale. All persons who are interested have been invited to attend the sessions.

Child Book Collection At City Library Grows

The Daly City public library recently received a large shipment of children's books, according to City Librarian Sam Chandler.

The books have yet to be indexed but will be on the shelves in a short time.

According to Chandler, the books cover a range of interests of kindergarten through high school students. The books are supplemented by other books of interest to children which are available now only in the adult section.

The new books vary from mystery novels to short stories. They include books on history, science and the arts.

Children's books are ordered four times a year, Chandler explained. During the fiscal year 1961-62 the library added 2008 books to the collection. These are distributed to both branches of the library.

Daly City employs a specialist in children's literature to guide children's reading and to help them with their problems. Rosemarie Kraus, graduate of the University of California's library school, has been with the Daly City public library for the past five years.

She is assisted by Joy Belle Jackson, librarian at the branch at 6351 Mission street.

Some of the new books are: "Slavic Peoples," by Thomas C. Chubb—a history of people who settled Poland, the Balkans and Russia.

"Golden Book of the Civil War"—adapted for young readers from the American Heritage's Pictorial History of the Civil War, which is one of the most popular adult books in the library.

"Rufus," by Tomi Unger—a sample of picture books being added for young children. It is the story of a bat who wanted to live during the day and learns that it is best to be what you are.

"Queens Champions," by Shaun Sutton—a novel about men who uncover a plot to betray the queen of England during the battle of the Spanish Armada.

"Songs for a Child," music by Vally Weigl—a collection of music composed to great poetry for children by such poets as Longfellow and Browning.

"Volcanoes and Earthquakes," by Robert Irving—a science book for children about natural phenomena. This book was purchased by popular demand.

These are only a sampling of the excellent books available at the two libraries in Daly City.

Louanne's Datebook

December, 1962, was a month in which the Robert Berryman family of Westlake had a lot to celebrate! Not only did the Berryman's enjoy the usual seasonal celebrations this past December but Berryman and his wife, Martha, welcomed a tiny, red-headed baby daughter on December 13. The latest addition to the family was named Anne.

Also, in December, came an important promotion for the new father. Berryman was made a supervisor in the San Francisco offices of the FBI.

Welcoming holiday house guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Patrick O'Hare Jr., of Skyline drive in Westlake.

Visiting the O'Hare's and their two children, Holly, 10, and Patrick, 8, were Mrs. O'Hare's parents from Odessa, Tex.

A very elaborate Christmas party was staged for the youthful members of Cub Pack 248 at the Fernando Rivera school.

The event, held just before Christmas, was attended not only by the cubs and their parents but by two exceptional men, one was a talented magician and the other was Santa Claus, himself.

After the entertainment, Santa handed out gifts and the boys were served cakes and orange juice, while the parents enjoyed coffee. One important item of business was included on the agenda of the otherwise fun evening and that was the installation of new member, Paul Ayoub the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Ayoub of Westhaven drive.

The holiday season was party time at the Montrose drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rogers. On Christmas day the Rogers entertained 10 at a dinner party which was followed by games and dancing. Attending the affair were the San Francisco relatives of Rogers and Montrose drive neighbors, Rena, Don and Harry McKenna.

The Christmas party was followed by a pre-New Years gathering held on the 30th. On hand to enjoy fruit cake, coffee and conversation were the newly-wedded Don and Leona Duke of St. Francis Heights, and Bob and Teresa Smith of Westlake Terrace.

Home after a holiday trip to Washington state are Mr. and Mrs. John Madrosen and son, Clark.

The Madrosen's left their Elmwood avenue home the weekend before Christmas to spend a little of a week with their son, John Jr., and his wife and baby son.

AND CHURCH ACTIVITIES OF
DALY CITY, COLMA AND PACIFICA

Nazrenes Adding To Membership

Nazarene churches in this area became a part of a new North County California (coastal area) district when a three-way division of the former Northern California district of the denomination became effective January 1. The change is due to church growth in 1962.

Dr. E. V. Zachary, Santa Cruz, will be the district superintendent. He has served as superintendent of the entire 158-church district since 1960, during its period of reorganization.

Now his new coastal area district, retaining the name of the former district for legal and other purposes, will comprise 30 churches with 5,000 members in a 13-county area from Monterey in the south including Del Norte county in the north.

Dr. Zachary's appointment was announced last week by Dr. Samuel Young, Kansas City, Mo., the general superintendent in jurisdiction. In area, the new district is roughly a third of the former district.

Dr. Young will speak at a special meeting of pastors on the new district to be held at the San Francisco First Nazarene church on Thursday, January 3, at 2 p.m.

Dr. Young also announced the names of the other two new district superintendents and other details.

The division is intended to aid

Younger Talks of Youth Viewpoint

The "Viewpoint of Youth" was Congressman J. Arthur Younger's topic when he addressed the annual Recognition Dinner of San Mateo county Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The Congressman spoke chiefly of Explorer Scout-ing, the high school age program, and related his re-marks to the "viewpoint" topic developed by the Explorers at the First Explorer Delegates conference held in August, at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Younger felt this "Viewpoint of Youth" was of such importance that it was printed in the Congressional Record. Out of 26 different points that were incorporated into the document, Younger put emphasis on the following:

WORK for a balanced education making full use of our talents, so we may defend, advance, and enjoy the American way of living.

LEARN more about Communism and other subversive organizations so we can bury them with the truth about freedom.

BE ABLE to explain how competitive free enterprise is related to our form of government, offers freedom of opportunity, and raises our living standards.

CONDUCT activities that increase our understanding of the principles set forth in the United States Declaration of Independence, Constitution, and Bill of Rights.

DEVELOP enough money-earning activities to avoid the free-ride attitude in unit programs.

LEARN about and support methods of world friendship such as the Peace Corps, Care, Red Cross, Radio Free Europe, and student exchanges.

DISCUSS more often the application of such standards as the Explorer Code, Scout Oath and Law, Golden Rule, and Ten Commandments to our personal problems—bearing in mind that what we do, tells more about us than what we say.

Through this "Viewpoint of Youth," Younger expressed his faith in the youth of today becoming the leaders of tomorrow.

Model Cars to Share Spotlight At Auto Show

Model cars, a fast growing American hobby, will share the spotlight with some 100 personalized cars at the eighth annual San Mateo Auto Show Friday through Sunday in the Fiesta building, San Mateo county Fairgrounds.

The models will be displayed in 12 different classes, which are set up on the same basis as the regular show cars.

Model car judges will be George Barris, styling consultant to the AMT Model company and Hollywood car designer; and Ed Roth and Bill Cushman—both top rated auto customizers and builders.

In addition to the model cars on display, show manager Harry Costa Jr. has announced that the Northern California Model Drag Race championships will be held at the show.

Using a 120-foot course and cars with electric motors, the San Francisco Model Timing association will conduct the drag races throughout the show with final eliminations set for Sunday afternoon. Anyone who owns one of the 1-12th or 1-32nd scale cars may participate in the races.

One of the features of the regular car show will be the Silhouette, a full-sized car of tomorrow, featuring a huge plastic dome and hand formed metal body.

The San Mateo show will be the first west coast showing of the car, which is owned by Bill Cushman of Monterey. The car will be demonstrated throughout the show.

Entry blanks may be had from Harry Costa, 631 San Mateo avenue, San Bruno.

Daly City Police Nip Theft Ring

Daly City police last week arrested five young men as suspects in several robberies in Daly City and San Francisco during the past week.

The arrest definitely clears up two Daly City, and seven San Francisco robberies of gas stations, liquor stores, and grocery stores, said police.

No Resistance

Following a tip, police went to an apartment at 4 Vendome street, and arrested Robert Johnson, 20, San Francisco, and Gary Leroy Andres, 20, 111 Santa Barbara street, Daly City. Police report meeting no resistance.

Arrested at an apartment at 49 Hillcrest drive, Daly City, were Harry Samuel Harvey, 32, a cook; Sheldon Edward Dixon, 21, a window washer; and Rodney Von Ford, 21, who says he is a cowboy. Ford later was released.

Harvey was flushed from a closet by Detective Philip LaBruzzi. He was armed with a .45 calibre automatic, but did not use it.

Also found in the apartment with Dixon, according to police, was Barbara Weakley, former girlfriend of Willard "The Angel" Lopez who was slain in a "rumble" on Thornton Beach April 17. Miss Weakley was not booked.

All suspects were booked for investigation of armed robbery. Station Holdup

The arrests clear up the December 19 robbery of Alberigi's service station, 6098 Mission street, Daly City, police say. Two of the gang allegedly made off with $456.

The bandits also reportedly admitted to the robbery Sunday of Best Ways market, 497 Bellevue avenue, Daly City. Police say two of the gang held up clerk Wilfred Chan and owner William Wong, and escaped with $700 in cash.

In both holdups the men fled on foot, and no car was seen or heard.

A sixth suspect was seized later in connection with the burglary ring. Charged with conspiracy was Jimmie Zen Throne, 55, of 117 Santa Barbara avenue, Daly City.

Investigators said Throne admitted he was the owner of a .45 calibre automatic that had been used in the series of robberies.

Police Car Hits Island Palm Tree

A Daly City police car crashed into a palm tree on a dividing island last week when it swerved to avoid hitting a car turning into its path.

Officer John Walsh was answering a report of a prowler in the St. Francis Shopping district when Ruth Walker, address unknown, turned into his path.

Mrs. Walker was cited for failure to yield to a siren.

Boundary Lines For Muni Court

Municipal Judge Howard Hartley last Wednesday reminded attorneys and their clients that that was the first day of the changed boundary lines for the central municipal court district.

Under the realignment, the central district is expanded across to include Belmont, and a section of the Coastside, approximately from Devil's Slide on the north to Tunitas Creek on the south (just north of San Gregorio creek). Purpose of the expanded judicial district is to equalize some of the population in the county, since there has been several changes since the original municipal districts were set up about 10 years ago.

Wig Burned, Boys Warned

Three Daly City youths who tried to give Alice in Wonderland a new type of hairdo were caught and reprimanded Christmas Eve in Daly City.

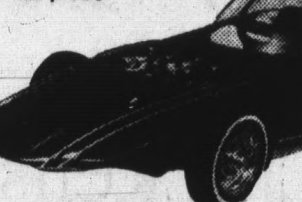

Alice, who could not protest because she is a mannikin in the toyland display at the Westlake shopping center, had an unseen police escort when the youths placed a cigarette under her wig and tried to set her hair afire. Officer John Coleman was nearby. The boys were released to their parents after expressing regrets for their action.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Back Up Your Resolutions

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education.

University of Southern California
Do you avoid making good resolutions about school work because you think you'll never keep them anyway? Then you may have been making resolutions the wrong way.

With the semester ending in another month, many students realize their need for a spurt in learning. But the resolution: "I am going to study more," brings little results. In fact, trying to force yourself to study probably will have a negative effect.

Students often say to me: "I want to succeed. I know I should study more. But I just can't seem to settle down to it."

These students often are subject to pressures and tensions because there is a conflict in their minds as to whether they are taking the right courses and the right major.

Major Is Doubtful
Fred, a college sophomore, was registered as a physics major. He was making a C in physics. His statement of his own problem:

"Even though I try to make myself study, I neglect it. Maybe I'm in the wrong line—I'm not quite sure what major I want."

The plan that solved Fred's problem can solve yours, too.

Having already signed up for the course, he made a new kind of resolution. Instead of just saying he would study harder, he resolved to start at the beginning of the semester's work and review the ideas and principles, leaving until later any decision on fresh goals.

He would review each principle thoroughly and work at least one problem related to it before turning his attention to the next.

He would start each study period with a basic plan. He would check his progress to date, and review his plan of attack.

One of San Mateo's big 1962 stories led to another, as Councilman Clyde West resigned to eliminate any possible conflict of interest between his employment as the buyer's representative and his post as the seller's agent in the sale of city hall.

West announced his resignation as effective January 7.

Sale of the old city hall enabled the purchase of a new city hall, the former Mobil Oil building at 330 West Twentieth avenue, for $550,000. The money is expected to be replaced when the McCarthy deal is completed. Councilmen also bought adjacent land and authorized plans for new council chambers.

Sale of the old city hall precipitated some community discussion when the fire department hose tower and mechanic's shop were included in the sale, unbeknownst to Fire Chief Hugh F. Morris and some councilmen. Discussion was also centered on a proposal to sell the firehouse to McCarthy; however that issue was resolved when McCarthy told the council it was not necessary to his project and he could not pay more than about $150,000 for the facility.

Old Faces Depart
This year, the stroke of midnight marked the retirement of San Mateo's pioneer Fire Chief

Hugh F. Morris, to be succeeded by his deputy, Noel Chanteloup. Three other community leaders dedicated to public service retired in 1962, Library Trustee Walter A. Jack and the Rev. Lesley Wilder, and Park and Recreation Commissioner John Quinn.

Extensive work of the library board finally climaxed in the city council's decision to condemn property adjacent to the new Bank of America building on West Third avenue, (also started this year) to provide a site for a $1,000,000 library. This plan is expected to be submitted to the voters as a bond issue in April. A former site proposed at Seventh and Laurel was tentatively earmarked for a senior citizens' residential facility, and the city agreed to dedicate land for a $150,000 recreational building adjacent to it.

Complex legal and engineering work was launched on the $2,000,000 grade separation at Hillsdale and the railroad and the proposed $650,000 depression of El Camino Real between Thirty-first and Thirty-seventh avenues to cure what has been officially termed "the worst traffic crossing in the state."

Some $212,913 in street improvements was completed and the long anticipated widening of San Mateo drive between Second and Baldwin avenues was started. A proposal for an estimated $60,000 purchase of some 1,000 parking meters was placed before the council for study, with a proposed enlargement of the metered area around the downtown district.

The council and a citizens' committee became involved in the problems of the San Mateo-Burlingame Transit Co., which threatened to shut down because of financial losses, and then was hit by a strike. The council provided some $3,000 to subsidize a temporary pay increase for bus drivers.

Marina Lagoon as an expanded recreational and drainage facility became the object of a study by a mayor's citizens' committee expected to recommend further dredging and enlargement to provide a park area.

Prospect of adding cultural sub-committees as advisory groups to the park and recreation commission was opened and a plan to construct a Fairland at Central park drew widespread interest and support.

Last year further saw a 42 percent boost in the assessed valuation of the city as the result of reappraisal by City Clerk-Assessor William J. O'Farrell. The council adopted a record high budget of $5,612,502 and cut the tax-rate as the result of the reappraisal and high return off the one-cent sales tax.

Before the end of the year, Police Chief Martin C. McDonnell was expected to appoint the city's first three meter maids to patrol the city.

On the debit side of the ledger last year's five traffic and pedestrian train deaths were increased by one. In 1962 there were three train-pedestrian deaths and three auto caused fatalities.

San Mateo residents found themselves unhappily embroiled in a high school redistricting dispute, still unresolved, and saw the defeat of a $4 million elementary school bond issue, prompting in both cases the appointment of citizens' study committees who are presenting recommendations to trustees. A lesser school bond issue for some $1,900,000 is indicated and another alignment of high school boundaries has been proposed. Total city construction for the year was reported by Building Official Mervyn A. Bader at $16,199,407 representing 4645 permits.

San Bruno Freeway Battle Overshadows Year's News

By STAN WISEMAN

This has been the year of the great freeway battle in the booming residential city of San Bruno, and it has been a bitter, emotional fight.

After many months of planning, the state announced its various plans for the long-awaited north county coast-to-coast state highway, 229.

By some accident of fate, or official oversight, the public hearings for this routing were set just before the hotly contested elections.

Up to this point, the major election issues had been dirt hauling on San Bruno avenue, which now traverses the city from Skyline to Bayshore as a parkway (it was expanded to four lanes all the way late in the year), and school-city co-operation to prevent spot zoning for apartments, water rates, and neighborhood recreation.

Suddenly it seemed that the only issue of importance was whether or not the city council was in favor of allowing the state division of highways to put the eastern leg of the freeway through San Bruno. Previous city councils had favored the road. But now the members were forced to declare their opposition, following a city-wide poll which indicated heavy disapproval, plus petitions, and the appearance of several fire-breathing committees.

Talk of recall was in the air for council members who were not up for re-election, and it was no surprise to anyone after the smoke of the public hearing and the final election campaigning—that a member of the opposition group was a new member of the council. He was Neil Christal, a young attorney, who had campaigned with Les Kelting and John Bernard under the title of the San Bruno Better Government League.

Many residents of the hillside subdivisions are owning their own homes for the first time, and it was no surprise that they reacted with hatred and fear to a freeway which could take their property.

Another Road

There were also residents who noted that the 229 freeway combined with Junipero Serra freeway (which is two years away) to make a criss-cross of the city, and to destroy the usefulness of a great deal of land which could be used for light industrial development.

In the lower areas of the city, where residents have been settled for many years, it was pointed out that state highway replacement payments for their homes would not buy a new home at today's prices, no matter how inflated real estate values are in the area.

When the matter came to a head before the state highway commission last month, the city had solidified and Mayor Maurice Hamilton avowed that no state freeway should be allowed to ruin San Bruno's residential charm.

"Go elsewhere, anywhere else but here," was the plea presented before the commission during an all-day hearing. Nearby cities, of course, replied that San Bruno was the most completely logical place for the freeway, and any other route would be foolishness.

More Battle?

A decision by the state highway commission is due in February, and should it be for the recommended route, the fight will continue. For one thing, the council will be pressured not to sign any freeway agreement, without which the state will have a hard time completing construction of the roadway. For another, there is a hope that state legislation can be passed, forcing the highway department to drop the plan completely, or to change it to include extension of the Millbrae spur from Junipero Serra's western San Bruno edge.

In other events of the year, F. Clay Fisher stepped down as a city councilman and was finally confirmed as the city's new postmaster. The city got a new fire alarm system, which is still being tested.

Juvenile vandalism reached an all time high, and the council agreed that 1963 would be a year in which an unrelenting "war" would be carried out against the vandals — and their parents — to stop the damage.

The new Crestmoor High school was completed, and the new Elcific Heights area west of Skyline school occupied, easing the plan was approved, despite protests from residents in the east. Progress was made on the new North County campus for the College of San Mateo, in the Peninsula area for future industrial development.

Make Resolution Taken to Heart

The San Mateo Heart association urged adoption of the following New Year's resolution: "Resolved, that in 1963, I will get the regular exercise needed to improve my health."

The association recommended a common sense approach of exercise, as follows:

"Select a form of exercise that is compatible with your age and your physical condition."

"Choose the exercise you like. If you approach the subject with a grim and Spartan attitude, you're bound to fall by the wayside in a short time. The idea is to fit physical exercise (whether outdoor hiking or home calisthenics) into your daily routine and then add some weekly activities like bowling, roller-skating, swimming, tennis, golf or other in-season sports."

"Once you've worked out a reasonable schedule, try hard to let nothing interfere with it."

"Be prudent. If you haven't had much exercise since you left school, don't try to start where you left off. If your age and physical condition warrant a return to strenuous activities, work up to these exertions gradually by daily moderate exercise."

"Do more walking and less riding. Unless the distance is too great, walk to work and walk when you go shopping."

Bay Area JCs Form Council

Formation of the Junior Chamber Bay Region Council has become effective with the affiliation of the 18 local Junior Chambers, announced Alan S. Maremont, chairman of the organizing committee.

The Council is intended to improve Junior Chamber effectiveness in attacking civic problems of regional scope, and to assist Junior Chamber locals in the Bay Area in obtaining information about these problems.

Some tentative problems are as the Council is considering for intensive consideration are the Bay shoreline, water pollution, regional planning, possible extension of rapid transit, transportation problems, and air pollution.

Affiliates Needed

Under the by-laws of the Council, it could not commence operation until at least 50 per cent of the Junior Chambers in the nine counties composing the Bay Area had agreed to affiliate.

The 18 locals which have joined include Santa Rosa, Oakland, San Mateo, San Francisco, Palo Alto, Menlo-Atherton, San Lorenzo, Vallejo, Novato, Alameda, San Jose, Mill Valley, Sunnyvale, Los Altos, Mountain View, Daly City-Colma, Berkeley and Redwood City.

Exploratory Meeting

Formation of the Council stemmed from an exploratory meeting held in May of this year, followed by preparation of by-laws for submission to the various locals.

The drafting committee included Curt DeHart, Alameda county, Al O'Neil, Contra Costa county, Paul Fry, Marin county, Gene Hoffman, Santa Clara county, Howard Looney, San Mateo county, George Reppas, San Francisco and James L. Sammet.

Following the first meeting of the Council's executive board, set for January 19, the Council will begin its regular program of informational activities on regional problems.

Ring in a Brighter Happier New Year...

With The Extra Cash
Times/POST Classified Ads Bring You

Get 1963 off to a brighter start. Join the smart, progressive families who live better and have more because they wisely use Classified Ads.

Almost every family has good articles around that they just don't use and enjoy any more—things such as ice skates, skis, sleds, sports and hunting equipment, heaters, fire-place equipment and other things you'll think of.

Classified readers are always looking for cameras, musical instruments, children's furniture and toys, bikes, appliances and all sorts of things.

Make a list of the things you have, along with the reasonable prices you expect for each item (ads with prices get faster and bigger response than those without prices) then phone the Times Office Nearest Your Home. A helpful, courteous Ad-Taker will quickly help you put a result-getting ad to work bringing buyers for what you want to sell.

The cost is surprisingly low. A 20-word, 4-line ad costs just 88 cents per day on the special 9 time rate, or as little as $1 a line for 6 days to sell a $15 item in a thrifty Action Ad.

AND Times/POST Classified Department has a special New Year's Gift For You . . . a handy Monthly Planner Booklet for 1963 for everyone placing an ad at any of our four convenient offices.

Two Gifts for New CSM Campus Hailed

The beauty of the new College Heights campus of College of San Mateo will be further enhanced as the result of two major gifts accepted last week by the board of trustees.

The first of the gifts, a $5000 donation toward a reflecting pool or a fountain and garden area, has been made by Mrs. Jean Stephens Rowe of Hillsborough as a memorial to her late sister, R. Annette Stephens. Mrs. Rowe, who is the president of the Garden Study club of the Peninsula, has taken an active interest in the development of the College Heights campus, particularly in the landscaping plan. The reflecting pool or fountain area will be located in the courtyard east of the Cultural Center and will be an outstanding feature at the campus entrance.

The second gift will also add to the landscaping, but in addition will offer an unusual study opportunity for Bay Area residents. One hundred and thirty different eucalyptus species, for the development of a Eucalyptus Arboretum, are to be given to the college by Jack F. Daniels, chairman of the fine arts division. Mr. Daniels' collection, purchased from Max Watson, hybridizer and grower of San Jose, will be the start of the only such arboretum in the nation. In making the gift, the college instructor noted that the collection represents some 30 years of study and research on the part of Mr. Watson. Daniels also stated that the project has been endorsed "with great interest" by Jack Brydon, director of Strybing Arboretum at Golden Gate park and by the botanical department of University of California.

Thirty local residents have already indicated interest in the establishment of a Eucalyptus Society, and others who are interested in the project should contact Mr. Daniels directly. The original collection will be available in March of next year, and an additional 45 species will probably be added at a later date. Some after planting in the area tentatively selected beyond the parking lot at the east of the Cultural Center, each tree will be labeled by species, common and botanical names.

In accepting the donations officially on behalf of the Junior College district, trustees president Carl E. Ward expressed appreciation of the aesthetic and educational values of the gifts and particularly the extent of interest in the community in the College Heights project.

Set Transfer In Bayshore School Deal

Transfer of 75 lots of the Southern Hills subdivision just south of the San Francisco boundary from the Bayshore school district to the Brisbane school district was approved last week by the San Mateo county Board of Supervisors.

But Rodney Robertson, a private attorney hired by the Bayshore district to fight the transfer, said after the meeting that the matter might be taken to court. The attorney said he had been informed by the Bayshore school board that it has received requests from more than 500 citizens to file suit if necessary.

"It is my understanding that the board intends to file suit," Robertson said.

The board meets in a week and presumably will take some action at that time. Transfer of the 12-acre area was recommended to the supervisors by James R. Tormey, county superintendent of schools. A school to be built to serve the new subdivision can best be handled by the Brisbane district, Tormey said. Bayshore trustees declared, however, that the district did not want to give up the assessed valuation represented in the land, and pointed out that until the new school is built, children living in the subdivision will have to be taken by bus a much greater distance to get to Brisbane than they would to Bayshore.

Tormey insisted, however, that it is advisable to make such boundary changes before the area is developed.

The vote in favor of the transfer was 3 to 1. Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, who voted no, said he was not convinced that the benefits of the action would be sufficient to overcome the objections of the residents.

Supervisor Alvin S. Hatch invited Bayshore officials to take the matter to court and Robertson indicated the invitation would be accepted.

Two Thefts At Daly City

Two thefts were reported to Daly City police Friday. Marie D. Moffitt, 90 Palisades place, said thieves entered her garage and stole laundry valued at a total of $150.

The Mission Bell motel, 6843 Mission street, reported the theft of a television set from one of its cabins. The set was valued at $100.

MATEO CHUCKLES Year's Zaniest Doings Locally

By JACK RUSSELL

Lots of local news stories flowed out from San Mateo county during the past year, most of them concerned with growth, development and some tragedy.

However, there were also some humorous happenings, zany doings and blunders which landed the Peninsula on the pages of newspapers all over the country.

Here are nine of the goofiest—the kind that James Thurber would delight in.

1—A happy soul named Felon Barker tried the season's zaniest holdup. He fled from one store when he couldn't find the right pocket in which he held a pistol. His second attempt ended when he jumped into the wrong getaway car.

2—A plucky turtle owned by San Mateo Officer Charles Drews made the national press when he sported a plastic cast to knit his broken back.

3—A voodoo curse complete with pins being stuck in a doll was put on Deputy District Attorney Brian Rowson in a Redwood City courthouse trial by a woman.

4—First warning on a burning leaves in Woodside went to a man named A. M. Early.

5—The San Mateo city council cheerfully sold the city hall and then discovered that they had sliced off the prize hose tower of Chief Hugh Morris.

6—A 17-year-old Atherton boy who confessed to police that he shattered Christmas ornaments was hauled off to Hillcrest. By the time he reached there, however, in the foggy night he had turned 18 and the disgruntled officers had to take him back down the hill to the county jail.

7—A Pacifica chief had sent money to bring his mother here from Nicaragua. She missed her connections but managed to reach the restaurant unable to speak English. Her son, not recognizing her, called police to report that a strange woman was sleeping in the rear. They finally were reunited.

8—San Bruno Fire Chief Herb Freitas thought he was color blind when he spotted a pastel blue fire hydrant but it was just a resident's way of being different.

9—An auto accident on the approach route to San Francisco International Airport was averted by an alert spotter in the control tower who shifted his gaze from the skies long enough to spot a truck heading down a one way street and called the highway patrol.

Meanest Thieves Loot Red Cross

Expert thieves broke into the San Mateo county Red Cross headquarters in Burlingame sometime the day after Christmas and hauled away $746.46 worth of new clothing intended for the poor, the sick and the handicapped, police reported last week.

The hard-hearted burglars entered the Red Cross building, located at 1449 Bellevue avenue, by breaking the window of a rear door and unlatching it. The clothing was taken from a locked cupboard, according to the report, apparently through use of a key obtained at some prior time.

Capping the criminal activities was the fact they then stole the Red Cross station wagon to haul their loot away.

Police said the station wagon was later recovered parked in a rear drive-way to the San Francisco Red Cross at Sacramento and Van Ness avenue, undamaged.

According to Sergeant Jerry Nordstrom, the vehicle had been driven 21 miles, whereas the distance to the Red Cross building in San Francisco is only 18. He theorized that the thieves must have deposited their loot at a location within the central downtown district of San Francisco, within a three-mile radius of the Red Cross building.

The clothing, children's and male and female adult's apparel, was part of a permanent stock that the Red Cross keeps on the premises at all times for emergencies, for special donation to persons who need help during the holiday season, for handicapped persons, and for inmates of veterans' hospitals, it was reported.

Knowledge of the existence of the clothing reserve, however, was well known to the many volunteers who help out at the Red Cross, as well as to the paid employees, police said, making it hard to determine who could have a key.

Robbery at D.C. Station

An armed robber in an ill-fitting blue suit held up a gas station in Daly City early last Wednesday.

The poorly dressed bandit held a snub-nosed revolver on employee Wayne Pickering, 19, 332 Miriam street, during the robbery.

No Change In District Boundaries

County supervisors said last week they will take additional testimony about redistricting, but indicated it won't do any good.

The board approved a redistricting plan two weeks ago and scheduled Tuesday as the date for adoption of a redistricting ordinance.

At the meeting last week, Nancy Jewell Cross of Menlo Park, who authored a plan for reapportionment that was rejected by the board, asked if the board would agree to hear further evidence Tuesday.

Chairman T. Louis Chess, who drew the plan that has been adopted, told Miss Cross that the board will be willing to hear from her and others at the Tuesday meeting if they have anything new to offer.

Alvin S. Hatch, who will take over the chairmanship from Chess on that date, told Miss Cross, however, that he did not see that anything would be gained by hearing any further talk on the subject. Supervisors William M. Werder and James V. Fitzgerald also announced that they are satisfied with the plan that has been adopted and indicated that Miss Cross will be wasting her time if she makes a presentation in the January meeting.

Book Price Probe Due

The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission will investigate charges of overpricing by concessions at San Francisco International Airport.

Commissioner Thomas White said last Wednesday he suggested the PUC investigate the cost to the public and emphasize service. White particularly mentioned charges for paperback books and candy, a subject of recurring complaint.

Emmett Smith, assistant airport manager, said the airport management does not have direct control. He said the management has been watchful, however, of price complaints in negotiating leases for the airport's new South Terminal.

White made his charges while the commission confirmed leases for the new terminal covering ticket counter and office space for four airlines, which will bring the city $204,006 annually.

Pacifica Council To Meet Tonight

The Pacifica city council will meet tonight. Most of the items on the agenda comprise unfinished business from previous meetings. Council members will discuss the possibility of placing the city's liability insurance coverage out for bid again this year.

A report will be given on the status of the San Pedro drainage district. A question was raised by City Treasurer J. C. Miles in an appearance before the council last month.

Several re-zoning matters are up before the council. Most controversial is likely to be the application of Lawrence Kennedy to re-zone the Vagabond club property on Pedro Point to commercial recreational use.

Pacifica Driver Hurt in Crash

Gene Hoffman, 34, of 675 Crespi drive, Pacifica, last week lost control of his car on loose gravel at Crespi and Ladera avenues, Pacifica police reported, and crashed into a fence. His wife, Evelyn, 32, suffered minor cuts and bruises and received emergency treatment at Peninsula hospital.

Boy Shot in Yule Mishap On Coastside

Tragedy struck for the third time within a space of a few short months at the family of 13-year-old Kit Burum of Grandview boulevard in Half Moon Bay on Christmas Eve when he apparently accidentally shot and seriously wounded one of his best friends while showing him his father's .22 calibre pistol, Half Moon Bay police reported.

Taken to Peninsula hospital with a bullet wound in his chest was 12-year-old Martin Vella, who lives on Cabrillo highway just north of town.

According to Police Chief Don Pearman, Burum's family moved here only a few months ago so the father could accept a position as vocational adviser for the County Rehabilitation Center. A short time after the family settled in Half Moon Bay, Mrs. Burum died. A few weeks after that the family's new home in Granville Terrace tract was almost flooded out during the worst of the season's storm.

Called to the home early Monday afternoon, Sgt. Fred Ceranski said he found the Vella boy sitting on a kitchen chair, wounded in the chest. A local physician was called to administer emergency treatment, and the boy was taken with his mother to the hospital. The boy's father was in Texas to attend the funeral of his own father, according to Pearman.

The Burum boy said he had taken the loaded revolver of his father from a living room closet to show to his friend as he had several times previously.

As he brought the revolver into the kitchen, Kit said it suddenly discharged, striking his friend in the chest. His friend did not fall, the Burum boy reported, but continued to stand, clutching his chest with both hands. Placing his friend in the chair, Kit immediately telephoned police, Ceranski reported.

The boy was released to the custody of his father, pending further investigation, according to Pearman.

Holdup Nets Trio $275

Three robbers dressed in dirty work clothes held three clerks at the Safeway supermarket at Briggs and Washington streets in Colma at knife and gunpoint last week while they ransacked cash registers of $275, Broadmoor police reported.

Although some dozen customers casually continued to shop, unaware the robbery was taking place, one woman customer, Madeline Winsted, a housewife, 851 Eighty-seventh street, Colma, looked up to see one of the thugs heading out the front door with a revolver in his hand. She ran to the rear of the store and alerted a clerk, Mrs. Florence Kane of 95 Wavercrest street, Daly City, who immediately telephoned police.

Roast Wild Duck Idea: Good With Hominy Grits

SOME LUCKY cooks have wild ducks stewed away in their freezer — brought home by the man in the family or received as a holiday gift. How may the ducks be prepared and what to serve with them?

We found we did well when we took the advice of Sidney Corbett, co-author with his wife Lucy of a delightful cookbook, "Pot Shots from a Grosse Ile Kitchen," published some years ago. Mr. Corbett liked his ducks "crisp and brown outside, pink and juicy inside, and dolloped liberally with red wine sauce." He averred, too, that "browned cakes of hominy grits would help pay fit tribute to the rugged hunter who shot the birds." If this suggestion appeals to you, here are two recipes patterned after those used in the Corbett kitchen.

ROAST WILD DUCK
2 wild ducks (about 1 pound each)

Salt and pepper
3 tablespoons butter or margarine (melted)
1½ cups Burgundy
Sprinkle cavity and outside of ducks with salt and pepper. Place breast side up in roasting pan. Brush with a little melted butter. Mix remaining butter and Burgundy; pour over ducks. Roast in a very hot (450 degrees) oven, basting once, for about 10 minutes. Reset over temperature control to hot (400 degrees) and continue roasting ducks, basting often, until ducks are done as much as you like — usually 35 to 40 minutes for what is considered well-done duck. Serve with pan juices.

GOLDEN GRITS
5 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup white hominy grits
½ cup (about) corn-oil margarine
2 eggs

2 tablespoons milk
Bring the water and salt to a boil in a saucepan. Gradually stir in the grits. Cover and cook over low heat, stirring often, for 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from heat. Beat in 3 tablespoons of the margarine and 1 of the eggs that has been slightly beaten. Spoon into a greased 8 by 8 inch baking pan; smooth top. Cover surface of grits with waxed paper and chill until firm — about 1½ hours. Cut grits into about 1½ inch cubes. Beat remaining egg slightly; add milk and beat to combine. Heat about 1 tablespoon of the remaining margarine in a large skillet. Dip the cubes of grits into the egg-milk mixture and add to skillet; turn as needed so all sides will be golden brown. Don't have heat so high it will scorch margarine — browning should take about 15 minutes. Add additional margarine as necessary.

Mixed Grill Can Replace Sunday Roast

Ever serve a mixed grill instead of a roast for that end-of-the-week dinner?

Savory Lamb Chops with Pork Sausage Link and Broiled Mushrooms

Potato Sticks Stewed Tomatoes
Green Beans Salad Bread Tray
Lemon Cake Beverage

SAVORY LAMB CHOPS
4 loin lamb chops (1 inch thick)
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon dry crumbled oregano
1 clove garlic (crushed)
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
Cut all but a thin layer of fat away from outside edge of chops. Remove lump of fat at center of inside edge; roll the tail on each chop together and skewer with a small meat pin. Have chops at room temperature. Mix together the salt, pepper, oregano, crushed garlic and vinegar; spread half the mixture over top surface of each chop. Arrange chops on rack in broiling pan; broil, according to the directions for your range, until browned. Turn chops and spread with remaining seasoning. Continue to broil to desired doneness. Remove meat pins. Serve with browned pork sausage links and broiled mushrooms. Makes 4 servings.

Try Tasty Cheese Nibble

These tiny, tasty appetizers combine two favorite cheeses. They can be made well ahead of time and kept, properly covered, of course, in the refrigerator until time for serving.

Blend together an 8-ounce package of cream cheese with 2 tablespoons each of blue cheese, finely chopped celery and mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon minced onion and dash of cayenne pepper. Shape into tiny balls and roll in finely chopped ripe olives or nuts. Chill and serve on picks.

LUNCH DISH

Cramped hard-cooked eggs make a fine lunch or supper dish when they are served over curried hot biscuits. To make the biscuits, just add a half teaspoon of curry powder to the dry ingredients when you are mixing a standard biscuit recipe.

California's 11,393 retail food stores have annual sales of over $5.5 billion, with more than 80 per cent of these sales represented by food items alone.

Lemon-Buttered Potatoes Pleasing

Baked ham, roast beef, the season's fowl browned to a ruddy glow may take the spotlight in holiday meals but potatoes can provide a mighty glamorous background for any of the three.

There are so many uncommon ways to serve this everyday favorite. This is the time to try them. Quite likely they'll become a round-the-calendar treat.

Take lemon-battered potatoes, Idaho. Here is a dish not only pleasing to the eye, but it provides a perfect flavor accent for baked ham, hot or cold. Accommodating too, for it may be put together in the morning, casserole and refrigerated, to be heated in a moderate oven a half hour before the meal is served.

LEMON-BATTERED POTATOES, IDAHO
Steam-Boiled Potatoes: Scrub and thinly pare 8 medium-size (about 3 pounds) "Idahos." These potatoes with their baking reputation of mealy-dryness and fine flavor are also superlative "boiled." Cut in half crosswise.

Place in wide, shallow (rather than narrow and deep) saucepan. Add 1 cup cold water and ½ teaspoon salt. Cover tightly. Bring water to boiling point. Turn to low heat to simmer until potatoes are just fork-tender. Do not overcook. Drain off liquid and keep to add to soups, gravies, stew. Let potatoes dry off a bit, uncovered, over low heat. In the meantime prepare

Lemon-Butter Sauce: Put 4 tablespoons butter (½ stick) in a frying pan. Add 3 tablespoons olive oil, grated rind of half a lemon, 1½ tablespoons each snipped-up parsley and cut chives. Use 1½ teaspoons grated onion if you have no chives. Then add ¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg (don't be afraid!), ½ teaspoon salt, a liberal sprinkling of coarse-grind black pepper.

Finishing Touch: Heat slowly in this sauce the cooked hot potatoes, turning them carefully with a wooden spoon so they will be well-coated with the mixture. When ready to serve, add the juice of 1 lemon — 2 to 2½ tablespoons, again turning the potatoes in the sauce. Serve very hot and at once.

A tasty partner by way of another vegetable is Jelly Glazed Sweet Spanish Onions. Peel 3 large Sweet Spanish onions, also grown in Idaho. Cut in half crosswise. Stick cut sides with times to low heat to simmer until potatoes are just fork-tender. Do not overcook. Drain off liquid and keep to add to soups, gravies, stew. Let potatoes dry off a bit, uncovered, over low heat. In the meantime prepare

Gypsy Goulash
The preparation of hearty main dishes for winter days need not be time nor energy consuming, if you take advantage of the versatility of the new packaged soups for seasoning.

The rich stocks, the chopped vegetables and expert blend of seasonings will make the preparation of stew and goulash simple and quick. . . . with simmering time varying with the cut of meat selected.

GYPSY GOULASH
¼ pound salt pork, diced
1 cup chopped onion
1 pound boned pork shoulder, cut into 1-inch cubes
1 pound boned lamb shoulder, cut into 1-inch cubes
2 pounds boned beef shank, cut into 1-inch cubes
1½ cups water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon paprika
½ to 1 teaspoon caraway seed
1 envelope vegetable soup
1 (10-ounce) can tomato puree
Combine salt pork and onion in heavy skillet; cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until salt pork is crisp. Add 1 pound meat and cook, turning as needed, until well browned on all sides. (Do not crowd meat.) Remove from skillet. Brown remaining meat, 1 pound at a time, removing all but last batch from skillet as soon as browned. When all is browned, return to skillet; stir in water, vinegar, paprika and caraway seed. Cover, bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 1 hour, 15 minutes. Add soup mix and tomato puree. Simmer until meat is tender, about 1 hour.
